What are shipping container roof kits?

Our shipping container roof kits offer a cost-effective and efficient solution for creating secure, weatherproof spaces. Designed to seamlessly integrate with standard shipping containers, these roofs provide a sturdy foundation for multiple applications. Our shipping container roofs prioritize safety, durability, and ease of deployment.

What is a shipping container roof system?

You also have the option of having an inside-mount shipping container roof, meaning it covers only the space between the shipping containers rather than that space, as well as the tops of the shipping containers themselves. Shipping container roof systems are incredibly versatile, making them suitable for numerous industry applications.

What makes Western Shelter a great shipping container roof?

Western Shelter's shipping container roofs deliver the reliability and flexibility you need. Made in America with American Steel: Ensuring superior quality and supporting domestic industries. Backed by a 20-year Guarantee: Demonstrating our confidence in the product's durability and longevity.

How big should a shipping container roof be?

Shipping containers mostly range in size between 20' and 40' long with a standard height of 8' 6", and will determine the length and final height of your container roof building. The final container building size and square footage are a combination of the length of your containers with your desired width of the roof between them.

How do shipping containers and roofs differ?

These are the main ways they differ. Roofs can be attached to either the inside edges or outside edges of the two containers, referred to as "inside mounts" and "outside mounts." For the largest industrial-scale projects builders can also mount a roof on top of stacks of two shipping containers.
